Hulled organic hemp seeds EU certified
Biofach 2026

Hulled organic hemp seeds - small seeds, big impact

Hulled organic hemp seeds are among the most versatile and nutrient-rich foods in plant-based nutrition. By removing the hard outer shell, the soft, aromatic inner kernels remain. With their high content of plant-based proteins, omega fatty acids, and mild nutty flavor, they are a sought-after raw material for the food industry, brands, and bottlers. Our products come from controlled organic cultivation within the EU and meet all relevant organic standards. They are fully auditable, transparent, and documented. Through close cooperation with European farmers and regular harvests, we can offer stable quantities, short transport routes, and low supply chain risks.

Mechanical hulling and low-temperature processing ensure a nutrient-rich, clean end product with stable sensory properties. Since organic hemp thrives robustly and does not require synthetic fertilizers or pesticides, this results in pure raw material with high market acceptance in finished products.

Thanks to its deep roots, hemp improves soil structure, enhances water retention, and supports natural weed control – a real advantage for a long-term stable and ecological agriculture.
