

How much Hydrogen cyanide is allowed in organic almonds?

Recently, there have been more recalls of almonds and almond products in the food retail trade due to increased levels of prussic acid. Therefore, there is currently a great deal of uncertainty on the market regarding the acceptable prussic acid content in almonds.

Against this background, we would like to inform you that we have been working on this issue for quite some time. The amendment of the Contaminants Regulation (EC) 1881/2006 with limit values for prussic acid in almonds, which is expected in the near future, will result in an even more well-founded analysis, which we can meet by intensified on-site controls. We benefit from long-standing partnerships with certified projects in the origin. Some of these cooperations have existed for over 20 years. The resulting trust enables us to offer you, the customer, the greatest possible guarantee of compliance with the required limit values.

Through our well-founded expertise and intensified controls of the cultivation areas, we create conditions that offer you maximum security. Trust us.

Update! Organic Regulation (EU) 2018/848

You are certainly aware that the new (EU) organic regulation 2018/848 has been valid since 01.01.2022. This presents companies with daily challenges in the interpretation and implementation of new requirements. Furthermore, this brings uncertainties in dealing with this change. The bureaucracy and sometimes unclear responsibilities on the part of the authorities and organic inspection bodies are often difficult hurdles to overcome.

Through regular in-house seminars of qualified specialists, the constant exchange with our inspection body and competent authorities as well as the exchange with the Waren-Verein of the Hamburg Stock Exchange, our employees deal intensively with the organic regulation. This enables us to deal dynamically with the implementation of new challenges. Feel in competent hands thanks to our know-how.
